When searching for a title for our Fall production the creative team wanted to find a show that showcases our students' strengths. The upperclassmen in the troupe have an innate sense of play and creativity. They make us laugh and keep us on our toes on a daily basis. Lost Girl, by Kimberly Belflower, offered a script that combined imagination with a coming of age story that would allow a production that we could all explore and discover together.

This process has been an absolute honor to helm. From day one the students - both cast, crew and leadership - have offered ideas, connections and personal experiences to make this story come to life while feeling collaborative and new the entire way through. Approximately 50 students came together to design, build, paint, act and direct Lost Girl and I am so grateful to be part of Troupe 513 where we work together towards a common goal and execute a performance where we support and lift up one another.

Lost Girl is a continuation of the Peter Pan story and focuses the lens around Wendy Darling. At 18, she is growing up and her Mother is urging her to leave the nursery and start her life. Her father and brothers have left and Wendy and her mother are alone in the house to move on. While Wendy knows that she needs to grow up, the words of Peter, "Wait for me," echo in her head and she is stuck, lost in her thoughts with no one to remind her of the past but the lost boys Nibs, Toodles, Curly and Slightly, that followed her home from Neverland. Wendy discovers that she isn't the only one who has journeyed to Neverland and sets out to find the girls that have been voices in her head clouding her thoughts.

It's a story about growing up, a story about finding yourself and a story about learning to live in the right now with those that love us. Enjoy our story, and I hope it makes you reflect on your own journey through life.
